Dr. Diefenbeck Addresses IRC

"Sovereignty in Relation to Government" was the topic of Dr. James A. Diefenbeck's talk to the International Relations Club, Thursday night.

Dr. Diefenbeck, professor of philosophy at SIU, began his talk by discussing the relationship between the federal and local governments. He then went on to discuss the concept of sovereignty, which he defined as the right of a government to govern itself without external interference.

Dr. Diefenbeck spoke of the League of Nations, which he said was a failure because it did not have the power to enforce its decisions. He then discussed the United Nations, which he said was a more successful organization because it had the power to enforce its decisions.

Dr. Diefenbeck concluded his talk by saying that sovereignty is a complex issue and that it is important for governments to understand their own rights and responsibilities in relation to other governments.

Dr. Diefenbeck's talk was well received by the audience and he was thanked for his presentation.

Alum Donates Music Collection To SIU

A priceless collection of books and music scores has been donated to Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Maurits Kesar, head of the music department.

Mrs. Robert L. Bates, one of the oldest alumni of SIU, owned the collection which had belonged to her sister, Emma S. Landen, for many years. Mrs. Bates specified that the collection was being given in name of her sister.

Some-time ago Dr. Fred Decker and Miss Edna Griffin gave a recital in memory of Miss Landen. At that time Mrs. Bates intimated that she might give her sister's collection to the University.

Dr. Kesar talked with Mrs. Bates before he and the Southern Illinois Symphony orchestra gave a concert in Cairo May 17. They then set the date for the transfer of the collection.

On Friday, Dr. Kesar and Miss Grace Kite, University Libraries Circulation Chief, traveled to Cairo where they picked up the collection.

While in Cairo, they were invited to see the Magnolia House, a beautiful old mansion adorned with many paintings, antique furniture, and other priceless articles from an earlier period, and Kesar described it.

The Women's Clubs of Cairo were sponsoring the event and Mrs. Bates donated much of the furniture for the house. The house was open on Friday and Saturday. President Grant once stayed at the house while he was visiting the city.

Before the coming of the railroad and the decline of river travel, Cairo was a great cultural center rich in art, literature, and music, according to Dr. Kesar. There was even a city opera company at the time, performing the difficult operas of the European composers. But with the end of the era of steamboats, Cairo's culture declined.

Scores of early operas, folk songs of the early 19th century.

Beimfohr Discusses Area Manufacturing

(Editor's Note: This is the ninth in a series of articles on Dr. Oliver W. Beimfohr's study, "The Industrial Potential of Southern Illinois.")

Released By Bill Lyvers
Of The Information Service
Southern Illinois is not conspicuous as a manufacturing region, but the location of the nation's center of population in the area gives it a strategic position as a market and raw materials for manufacturing products and should give it added importance in the scheme of industrial dispersal and expansion, says Dr. Oliver W. Beimfohr, Southern Illinois University geographer, in his study, "The Industrial Potential of Southern Illinois."

There has been an upward trend in industrialization in the area since 1939, and there are hopeful signs that with more adequate study, more graduates and strong leadership in communities this upward trend may be accelerated. However, the increase in number of manufacturing

Essays and Sallies

By Jack Hagler

Generally speaking, or maybe generalisimously speaking, Dr. Swartz will bury the last for Stalin tomorrow night in University school at 7:30. The title of the talk will be "The Death of Stalin."

Only a two-headed octopus with a split personality could keep up with all the functions folks are throwing around here. Maybe we should all do like the famous general who jumped on his horse and rode off in all directions.

Drs. Diefenbeck and Harris of Southern's philosophy department have just received what was once called the "Square Circle Club" for purposes of further debate and hair-splitting. Dr. Diefenbeck, Harvard-trained World War II pilot just back from an air force stint which included some fly in flying, finds pursuit of whatever it is philosophers pursue more interesting. Dr. Harris was a marine in our last full-dress war, and if you'll pardon the expression, knew or McCarthy.

Marilyn Wakeland is recruiting members for a Great Books Club. Given ten loyal members and true. Dr. Rainbow will sponsor the club.

Speaking of organizations, Joe Dacey of Morgan Manor has one of his own. It's called "The Society for the Preservation of Songs Sung While Picked." Joe was one of those singing waiters in the late 1930s. A "friend" has described Joe's singing this way: "When Joe sings, it sounds like the Firehouse Five plus Two plus the fire truck."

Anyone else desiring a little souvenir such as a fire plug, a hand of Old Main, or a sidewalk, has better get busy. Southern's Architectural Service is now locating them down to the inch.

Those long-hairs on the campus are only fellows who would rather be taken for a sheep than for a back.

Notice: Anyone going near Pat Randall, succubus for the Anatolia Unit, with more than two shirts on his back is crazy. Anyone getting away from him with more than one is lucky.

English Girls Prove Their Stuff

(ACP) Three girls from Reading, England, now studying in France, sent letters to protest to the boys club at Reading University for trying to import French girls as dates.

Some Reading men had invited three "particularly beautiful" girls from the Paris Sorbonne. Following the letters of protest the English girls paraded in Bixini bathing suits to show that not all the beauty was in France.

Anyway, the Paris girls refused the Reading invitation.

Shryock Recalls SINU In Honors Day Speech

"Season your ambitions with warm values," advised Burnett Shryock at the annual Honors Day assembly, "for they will give you ulcers."

This bit of advice to students was contained in Prof. Shryock's speech before the assembly in which he compared the SIU of today with the older SINU when his father was president. He commented upon the changes that have taken place in the "young and recalled number of anecdotes that have happened through the history of the University."

Jerry Fraz, president of the Student Council, introduced the speaker.

Presentation of awards and prizes followed the speech. The American Association of Teachers of Spanish Award was presented to Jane Fierke. The Betty Rhodes Memorial Prize was received by Martha Caley. Esther Anderson received the Janice Necker Memorial Prize. The Patricia Taylor received the Phi Beta Kappa Award.

The Pan Hellenic Scholarship Plaque was presented to the Alpha Eta sorority and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity received the Inter-Fraternity Scholarship plaque. Edwin Krutinger received the Joe Dougherty award. Alice Foley was awarded the Mollaret Prize in French Studies. Violet Moore received the Kapka Omicron Phi Award. Patty LaPoint was presented with the Anita Ray Early Memorial Scholarship, and Jack Treadwell received the

Cornell Studies College Morale

(ACP) American students are taking the demands of the Korean conflict and the Cold War in their stride, according to a Cornell University study. This conclusion is based on responses from about 4,600 students attending 11 different colleges and universities. The report says that student morale has improved markedly since 1951.

Morale was poor at that time, says the report, "because of the uncertainty of military service, and the generally unsettled atmosphere."

The current situation shows a different picture. A majority of students say they will return to college if called to the service before completing their academic program. Many students are doing better scholastic work than they did before the start of the mobilization.

The report says students are facing the draft realistically, and most of them realize that a student deferment is not a permanent one. Seventy-nine per cent of those questioned agree with the statement that "military service will probably be good for me in some ways."

Prospects of military service seem to make good grades more important. About half the students questioned

Two-Session Summer Workshop

'Live-Wire' Science Curricula Aim of New Course
Teacher unable to answer questions about the things children bring to school in jars loses prestige as a science teacher, says a teacher of teachers.

Dr. Clyde Brown, science supervisor in Southern's third-grade demonstration school, has found children relatively "uninterested in a rebash of what their teachers have learned in liberal arts science courses."

Youngsters are little for lectures on when and where something scientific happened and they don't want to know about just one or two specific fields of science," says Brown. "What they want is the why, when, and how about this, that, and the other thing which they can see, hear, or feel right now."

Because teachers are beginning to realize the truth behind these statements and to feel their own inadequacy to cope with Johnny's questions, SIU has been receiving many requests for help in planning live-wire science curricula.

In answer to these calls, Southern's science department is conducting a two-session summer workshop in elementary science teaching from June 15 through July 15. Four credit hours will be given students attending morning and afternoon sessions for two weeks (June 15-26) or four weeks of afternoon sessions (June 15-July 10), says Dr. Brown, who is in charge of the workshop.

The science supervisor is convinced that the best way to teach Johnny the kind of science that interests Johnny is to give them first-hand experience with the captures and plants and rocks that end up in jars or grabby young hands. Many field trips are planned.

One of the events of the summer workshop, Dr. William Lewis of the zoology department demonstrates how the "shocking machine" is used in raising the electrical resistance in the muscles and livers of the area.

Also on the agenda, Dr. Chalmers Gross, science supervisor in the University school high school, will give simple demonstrations that teachers can carry out in their classrooms with little or no special equipment. Other consultants from SIU and various colleges of education will take part in open forum discussions, lectures and demonstrations.

Requests for further information concerning the summer science workshop and advanced registration may be directed to Dr. Brown or Dean Willis G. Swartz of the SIU graduate school.

Winners of ROTC honors were announced after the presentation of scholarships and awards. Students on the 1953 honor roll were introduced. Honor pins were presented to senior honor students.

The University Concert Band, conducted by Phillip Olsson, provided music for the occasion.

say they now attach more importance to good grades. Many of the seniors feel that the draft pressure has made it harder for them to study.

Only 10 per cent of the students say they have changed their course of study to fit military considerations. But almost twice as many freshmen as seniors indicate that military service was an important factor in choosing their major.

Summing up the study, the New York Times declares, "This much appears evident to the researchers: Being kept in the dark, under contradictory, unsettled policies, constitutes one of the biggest threats to morale. Such conditions provide a breeding ground for rumor, insecurity, and anxiety."

"This warning is given: Should present regulations concerning student deferments be rescinded without substitution of an equally clear-cut alternative policy, there is little doubt that restlessness, anxiety, and futility would return to the college campuses."

The absence of these symptoms today attest to the importance of a definite selective service policy and an informed student body."

JAPAN'S MARITIME SAFETY Board has announced that Japanese patrol ships captured seven Japanese fishing boats from May 15 through 20 near Nemuro, on Eastern Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

Most captured took place only about six miles from the Russian-held Habomai Islands.

Three of the seven boats were returned.

WEST GERMANY'S upper parliamentary house and Chancellor Adenauer's government have demanded speedy enactment of a German law to forbid the wearing of Hitler-like brown shirts and similar political uniforms.

WITH ONLY SEVEN DAYS to go before coronation day, the signs are there'll be an estimated 2,000 or 3,000 people strung along the procession route Queen Elizabeth will take from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace.

Britons have been jostling in the ticker agency queues for months, but unless there's a last minute rush from abroad—unlikely because of transportation difficulties—the June 2 coronation will not be the sell-out that authorities hoped for months ago.

THE PHILIPPINE CONGRESS adjourned midnight Thursday amid OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L.A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry. If you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometrists the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has proclaimed Memorial Day, May 30, a day of prayer for permanent peace.

His proclamation designated the hour beginning at 9 a. m., CST "as a period in which all the people of the nation, each according to his religious faith, may unite in solemn prayer."

The President added: "Let us make that day one of two-fold dedication. Let us reverently honor those who have fallen in war, and rededicate ourselves through prayer to the cause of peace, to the end that the day may come when we shall never have another war—never an Unknown Soldier."

THE AIR FORCE, ending public silence on heavy budget reductions, was quoted as saying President Eisenhower's new 120-billion dollar would cut air power well below the "absolute minimum" for national security.

The budget cutback was from $16,778,000,000 to $11,688,000,000.

The report appeared to herald a strong fight by Congress to restore some of the proposed cuts.

ONE NEW YORK CITY policeman was out of a job Thursday for falsely denying he ever had been a Communist, and others were arrested being investigated.

Patrolman Meyer E. Rubenstein was fired Thursday, after a departmental trial at which he admitted his previous denials of having once been a Communist were untrue.

He said he belonged to the party from about 1935 to 1938, but originally had denied it to protect his family from being "accused, branded, and condemned."

THE POSSIBILITY that victims of a South-eastern Idaho plane crash were robbed by some of the soldiers sent to guard their bodies is being investigated by officials of the Utah General Depot.

Col. L. L. Skinner, depot commander, announced that three soldiers are in custody at the Depot pending investigation of allegations that certain personal property is missing from the scene of the crash where 37 returning Korean veterans and their civilian members of the crew met death last Jan. 7.

The C-46 plane smashed against a mountain side near the Utah-Idaho border.

The men being held are members of a military detail sent to guard the crash. Only recently did Army officials begin to bring the bodies down from the crash site. Deep snow had prevented removal earlier.

Some of the bodies were buried.

An occasional story concerning some incident that occurred during the early days in Southern Illinois has been preserved in the form of a ballad. These ballads are generally romantic and tinged with sadness. Perhaps they are overly sentimental.

This story concerns one such ballad known as Alan Bane, popular more than seventy years ago. It grew out of a murder committed near Benton in Franklin county and is based on the events briefly sketched here.

During the Civil-war two men came to Benton. One of these men was named David Williams. The other, whose first name was not learned, was named McMahen.

These two men were often seen together about Benton and seemed to have been some kind of partners. McMahen, who was known to have had a considerable amount of money when last seen, disappeared.

Shortly after his disappearance the body of a murdered man was found in a fallen tree top about two miles southeast of Benton. This body was identified as that of McMahen, and a pocket knife found in the dead man's pocket was likewise definitely identified as his. No one appeared to question the conclusions reached.

Williams, who was the last person to be seen with McMahen, was suspected of the murder. He was arrested, indicted, and brought to trial. The case against him was based mostly on circumstantial evidence, but was so convincingly convincing as the case drew near its end, it appeared certain that Williams would be convicted.

At this point the trial took a dramatic turn. McMahen walked into the court room. With the "murdered" man alive and present in the courtroom the case naturally collapsed and Williams was set free.

The appearance of McMahen in court came about when a resident of Benton saw him on an Illinois Central train at Tamaroa some twenty miles away and explained to him the perilous situation of his friend.

McMahen left the train, accused a horse, and hurriedly rode to Benton, barely arriving in time to save Williams from what appeared a certain conviction.

The identity of the murdered man remained a mystery for many years. A boy had seen the murder committed and remained silent under threat of death until those who had committed the murder were dead. He then told the story. The murdered man was found to be a Union soldier who was on furlough and was on his way to visit relatives in Hardin County.

Three of the twelve stanzas of the ballad are given here. It is easy to see that they are somewhat crude in construction, but they do include some of the highlights of the story and indicate the manner in which it was handled.

ALAN BANE
1. They're taking me to the gallows, Mother,
They're going to hang me high.
They're going to gether around me there,
And watch me till I die.
All earthly joys are vanished now,
And gone each earthly hope.
They'll draw a cap across mine eyes,

2. Around my neck a rope,
The crissed mesh will shroud, and gown,
The priest will read a prayer,
The drop will fall beneath my feet.

3. And leave me in the air,
For they think I murdered Alan Bane,
And so the Judge has said,
They'll hand me to the gallows, Mother,
Hang me till I'm dead.

4. But hark, I hear a mighty murmur,
Among the jostling crowd,
A shout, a cry, a war of voices,
Which echoes long and loud.
There dashes a horseman on foaming speed,
With tightly gathered rein,
His eyes erect, he waves his hand,
Good Heavens, 'tis Alan Bane!

AGRICULTURE MOVIE Now Available For Showing
Agricultural and civic groups now may see a 20-minute agriculture motion picture produced in color by Southern Illinois University.

Through its scenes and narration the film gives glimpses of the agricultural program of Southern and shows acceptable farming practices for the area. Utilizing SIU personnel and services the cost of the production was kept at a minimum. Nearly two-thirds of the funds needed were provided by three farm machinery manufacturers (John Deere, New Holland, and International Harvester).

Two copies of the movie are available through the SIU Audio-Visual Aids service for rental showings. The SIU Agricultural department has another copy for use before off-campus classes and other groups.

Benchley On Education

Instructors are always emphasizing the importance of choosing a solid foundation for the building of a well-planned educational program. Students react to their advice in many different ways. Perhaps Robert Benchley expressed the sentiment of many students toward the selection of courses:

"My college education was no haphazard affair. My courses were all selected with a very definite aim in view, with a serious purpose in mind — no classes before 11 in the morning or 2:30 in the afternoon, and nothing on Saturday at all. That was my slogan. On that rock was my education built."

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who cracks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too! They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer? It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:
As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!
As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!
As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM. A TRIPLE THREAT MAN... as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

Salkis Take Two From Leathernecks

The Southern Salkis, who will have possibilities of winning the conference title, kept their hopes alive by defeating the Western Leathernecks in both games of a twin bill, played here last Thursday. This double victory coupled with a loss by both Michigan Normal and Eastern would give the Salkis no less than a tie for the conference crown.

FIRST GAME TOUGH

The first game, which Southern won the hard way, was the one Salkis every fan in his seat until the final out, and gave coach Abe Martin a few grey hairs. Here, it is play by play.

First inning: Liljeborg grounded to West. Sponler grounded to Williams. Rogers rolled out to West. No runs.

Campbell popped to Liljeborg. Coleman grounded out. Schmalbach tripled, but Williams grounded out. No runs.

Second inning: Wayland filed out. Hoffman filed out. Smith struck out. No runs.

Smith struck out. West was safe on an error. Chor walked. Burns and Grandcolas both filed out. No runs.

Third inning: Thomas singled. Seymour got on a fielder's choice. Then Balzell singled. Sponler and Rogers then filed out. No runs.

Campbell and Coleman filed out, and Schmalbach hit the first pitch back to the mound. No runs.

Fourth inning: Wayland singled and went to second on an error. Hoffman was then safe on an error. Smith struck out and Wayland was thrown out at third. Seymour then popped to Burns. No runs.

Williams popped out. Zapotocky grounded out. West singled and was cut down when he tried to stretch it into a double. No runs.

Fifth inning: Balzell grounded to Williams. Liljeborg and Sponler struck out. No runs.

Chor singled and Burns sacrificed. Grandcolas popped to the shortstop and Campbell struck out. No runs.

Sixth inning: Rogers opened the inning with a home run. Wayland struck out. Hoffman filed to second. Smith singled, and went to second on an error. Thomas singled scoring. Smith and when Thomas tried to advance on the throw to the plate he was cut down, Chor to Williams. Two runs.

Seventh inning: Coleman walked. Schmalbach sacrificed and the pitcher threw wild. In his anxiety to reach third Coleman overran second and was put out. Williams and Zapotocky filed out. No runs.

Eighth inning: Seymour filed out. Balzell singled, but Liljeborg rolled to the mound and Sponler popped out. No runs.

McGoo Has Short Love Life

By Don Primas

A tear trickled slowly down Willie McGoo's leather-like face and lost itself in the maze of his three chin hairs. He seemed as heavy as a handful of silver dollars and as torrid as an acetylene torch. Moans and groans escaped from his tightly compressed potato-chip lips.

Willie was unhappy.

WILLIE IS IN Willie's unhappiness was love—yes, Willie McGoo had fallen in love, as things usually happen to Willie. He got the worst end of it. He'd been had in the traditional McGoo manner.

It all started one balmy day when Willie was out on the football field, rolling the spotlight around. (Since he couldn't pick it up, he had to roll it around.) Being the type of guy that never watches what he's doing, Willie rolled what he was in one direction and looked in another. A scream, followed by a muffled curse, penetrated the fog that surrounded Willie. Willie and told him to inquire what all the noise was about.

LOVE APPROACHES

It wasn't too long before he found out what had happened. Advancing toward him, a girl named P. E. major, a softball ball clutched in her hand and a grimace of pain on her face.

"Look at wachas" did," she shrieked. "You rolled that spotlight right over my face."

And, to prove her point, she held up her right foot, which was encased in a tattered gym shoe. Willie summoned his apologies and then, quite kindly, he gave her a wad of money.

Willie McGoo was smitten with the charms of that fair damsel.

CHARMING GAL

Charm? Oh, yes, she had charm. Willie, that is, had fallen too much to do with the opposite sex. He wasn't an authority on beauty. And this girl would never win any beauty contests. She was about 6 ft. 4 in. tall, gravel-colored hair, cabbage-green eyes, and a nose which was completely devoid of any resemblance to a normal human being. She had a few scars on her face that must have been the results of improper shining.

Nevertheless, Willie fell in love with her. Some people said that it was because she was the only girl to speak to him at all, even in a most unkind manner. In the last 12 years.

Willie squandered all the money he could get his hands on for presents for his lady love—the female P. E. major. He bought her all kinds of tender little gifts, such as anklets, wraps, band aids, and the like. It must be understood that Willie never had a date with her or anything

Tennismen Third In Conference; Normal Is First

Although the conference meet at DeKalb didn't go to the dogs (the Salkis, that is) as they hoped it would, Coach Jim Wilkinson and his tennis squad are reasonably content with taking third.

Illinois Normal won the meet handily, making it the second straight championship for the Redbirds. They racked up 20 points, more than all the other teams could manage together.

Central Michigan, the second-place team, was the real dark horse. While Wilkinson was kind of skeptical at Southern's chances of beating Normal, he expected to finish in the runnerup spot. Central Michigan had seven points.

The Salkis had a total of five points, followed by Eastern with three, and Northern and Michigan Normal tied with two.

Gene Hille took second in the No. 3 singles, and Hille and Bill Fitch tied second in the No. 2 doubles. Bruce Lape also took second in the No. 5 singles. Ernie Flieg won the first round in the No. 2 doubles, but was later beaten by the eventual champion. Salkis Tennis Men Win Meet With Broomsticks

Not many tennis teams can say they won a match with brooms. The SIU Salkis coached by Jim Wilkinson can make this claim to fame however.

When the Salkis traveled to Southeast Missouri for a match heavy rains almost canceled the meet. After the rain both teams grabbed brooms and by much dint of effort and swishing of brooms cleared the courts of mud and water.

Evidently this was just what the Salkis needed. They defeated the Indians 4-1.

MARRIED TO PHYSICIAN

A hospital romance raised its head in goldfrod recently. Beverly Hanson, well known woman professional, was married recently to Dr. William Silverman Jr., one of the physicians who attended her last summer in a Schenectady, N. Y. hospital.

Miss Hanson won the Women's National Amateur championship in 1950 and has won several important professional tournaments.

Chataqua Braves Trackmen Take Last Win In Conference Meet

The Chataqua Braves pounded out nine hits and scored as many runs to defeat Casa Del Hombre for the intramural softball championship. The big gun for the Braves was Whitenberg who found the Home-ber's pitching to his liking and banged three out of four including two doubles. He was not the only Brave, however who received extra base blows. Sufin the shortstop who, had nine assists and one put out found a hole in center large enough to net him a triple. Smith and two safeties and there was no one in the Braves line-up who did not reach base. Their big inning was the third when they scored four runs on four hits, one of which was Sufin's triple.

For the losers Shaw was the big gun. He paced with two hits in four times at bat. Their big inning was the fourth when they scored two runs on one hit and no errors.

After winning most of their dual meets all season, the Salkis trackmen went backing up the wrong error as far as winning the conference meet was concerned. The meet was held Friday at DeKalb.

The Salkis finished tied for last with a total of 19 points, the same as Eastern Illinois. Michigan Normal, the favorite, won the meet with 63 points followed by Central Michigan With 53 1/2, Illinois Normal with 28, Western Illinois with 21, and Northern Illinois with 21.

It was the fate of the Salkis that the men who had been the big guns all season didn't fare so well against stronger competition. Vernon Spry, who previously hadn't lost, finished third in the 100-yard dash and second in the 220. Warren Nas, fourth in the 220. Leo Wilson placed third in the high hurdles and fifth in the lows. Henry Schneider took third in the javelin, and Dick Elythe placed fifth in the high jump.

Bob Moore, in the pole vault, Bob Nickolaus, in the high jump, and Dick Gregory in the half mile, failed to place at all. Had these men placed, it might have been a different story.

The results:

1 mile: Skelton, N. Mathew, E. Sims, E. Rowland, M. and Skelton, C. Time 4:22.8
